

Norton Rose Fulbright promotes 56 lawyers in its 2025 global partner class

Global | Press release - Firm | December 2024

Global law firm Norton Rose Fulbright today announced that 56 of its lawyers globally will be promoted to partner, effective January 1, 2025.

The new partner class includes lawyers from 13 practice areas: litigation and disputes (18); corporate, M&A and securities (12); banking and finance (9); employment and labor (3); public finance (3); antitrust and competition (2); cybersecurity and data privacy (2); projects (2); healthcare regulatory, policy and litigation (1); intellectual property (1); real estate (1); restructuring (1); and tax (1).

Jeff Cody, Norton Rose Fulbright's Global Managing Partner and US Managing Partner, said:

"Growing the partnership is a focus of our firm, and one of the best ways to do that is to promote our own highly qualified and talented rising stars. Congratulations to these outstanding lawyers, who will continue to contribute to our firm's success."

The promotions span 18 of the firm's 53 offices around the world. The countries with the most promoted partners this year are the US (22), Canada (18) and the UK (11).

Peter Scott, Norton Rose Fulbright's Global Managing Partner and EMEA Managing Partner, said:

"We provide clients around the world with exceptional and seamless service across key practices and sectors. Our new partners demonstrate our impressive global reach and range, and congratulations to them all."
